Dedication

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Hendricks have been a part of our school for twenty-four years. They have worked with us, believed in us, encouraged us, and supported us. The true value of the knowledge they have instilled in our lives can never be expressed in just a few words; yet their examples of leadership and dedication will always be a part of our memories of Beaver Schools.

Most Talented. Mitzi Reddick and Tracy Hoover were honored for the second ar as Most Attractive. Mark Mobley minded his manners as did Michelle Speer en they were chosen Most Courteous. Always neat and well-groomed, Ben-Sena and Paige Barby led the pack as Best Dressed.

TPIR . . . For over a month the students of BHS were plagued with the mystery of what TPIR stood for. The guesses ranged from "The Power Is Rising" to "The Pizza Is Ready." The answer, of course, was "The Price Is Right" and the staff used the game show as a premise in selling annuals. The Yearbook

The Cowboys are not just a football team in Dallas; at BHS the Rodeo Club kept the cowboy tradition alive by meeting once a month. In addition, they held a roping school to train these young people in the fine art of headin' and heelin'. The were kept busy during the year with five Oklahoma high school rodeos held at Cherokee, Choctaw, Edmond, Leedey, and Oklahoma City. They also attended seven tri-state rodeos in Claude, Dalhart, Dumas, Amarillo, Guymon, Spearman, Stratford.

Rodeo Club Ropes

Every successful high-school football team can't be judged by its won-lost record of the past season. The 1982 Beaver Dusters put in many hours of hard work and individual time and effort to have a successful football team.

The final season record may not have been what the players, coaches, and the Duster Fans had hoped for, but the 1982 for team unity was successful! Their positive belief in each other, their faith in what they were doing, and their putting in a great deal of hard work for the team made them successful.

The future looks bright and that famous Duster "Winning Tradition" is on its way back.

Providing the Duster fans with many hours of exciting basketball action, the high-school varsity and junior varsity basketball teams concentrated mainly on defensive strategies. The BHS and stamina held most of their opponents to under forty points.

Basketball Boys' Hustle

With only two seniors on the starting five, the young team accumulated a very respectable 16-6 record. One of their finest accomplishments was capturing the west side of the Red Carpet Conference.

9th, Junior High and Elementary Sports Summary for 1982-83

Junior High really kept the spirit growing with T-shirt sales, cake chances and their once-a-year spirit week which coincides with cow chip celebration to promote pride in our community and school. These boys and girls formed excellent to help cheer on those great Junior High Dusters. They traveled to two out of town games for football and basketball.

Spirit Groups

They accumulate points throughout the year by dressing up or wearing black and gold on game days and attending games. Students with ¾ participation at the end of the year will take a trip with money earned throughout the year.

After the initial games with Laverne and Booker, the team realized that their efforts were going to have to improve. The

for victory didn't always succeed, but they gained valuable experience and helped build a firm foundation for future Duster teams.

Our junior high basketball girls had an exciting season this year with lots of participation and a winning record. The in tournaments gave them two first place trophies. Their athletic efforts were well demonstrated in the Beaver County Tourney (pictured left) and the Tyrone Tournament. (left photo — Joe Lansden)

With so many activities in junior high, the eighth grade filled a vital role as leaders. The Freshmen had to face cards of all kinds — enrollment cards, lunch cards, note cards, and grade cards (plus poker cards). This was only phase one in the to survive their first high school year. This bunch did a fine job of adjusting to high school life this year.

Freshman officers are S. Calhoon, Pres., S. Riggs, V. Pres., F. Klotz, Stuco, D. Goetzinger, Treas., P. Barby, Sec., and M. Kinney, Rep.

Competition in various contests among the high school classes made the

Seniors Shine

in 1983. From babby-bottle contests, pie-eating contest, spirit chain contests to setting examples for the underclassmen to follow, the seniors led the way to the top. The seniors brightened our school with their unique brand of wit, intelligence and leadership.

The time has come,
it is our final year It's time to move on to new frontiers;
Although the time has come for us to part,
We leave this place
with heavy hearts.
Sometimes this place
seems like a game,
After we leave,
none of us will be the same.

A bold new program was instituted in the BHS curricula in 1982. In conjunction with Oklahoma State University, the was built around guidelines for needed skills of college-bound students. The six six-week sessions concentrated on writing, reading, math, study, speech, and logic skills with different instructors for each area. The school-before-school concept required extra dedication from the senior students because the class began each morning at 7:30 AM instead of the 8:30 AM starting time for regular students.

Sherry Crouch captures the attention of the rest of the Humanities class during her speech.
